Hello Nasa members my name is Scott Evans. I have been with the U of A for 11 years working in electrical utilities. I am writing the NASA membership to inform you that I wish to run for membership service chair. My experience within NASA include being in the MAT group and on the bargaining team. I hope to bring new ideas to the membership service committee and to the executive board. If you have any questions or would like to meet up please email me swevans@ualberta.ca. Please vote. Cheers

Personal Bio – Interest in Membership Services Chair Position

I began my career with the Department of Chemistry as a Computer Analyst/Jr. Network Administrator. When I was asked back then where I saw myself in five years, I may not have had a clear answer — but that question sparked a journey of over 24 years of service and growth across departments. I spent more than six years with Chemistry, followed by another six in a more senior IT role within the Faculty of Education. During the period of consolidation, I transitioned from a faculty-based position to Central AICT (now IST), where I've spent the past twelve years continuing my commitment to frontline IT support and service delivery.

Throughout my career, I've always believed in the value of connection — not just through technology, but in the relationships we build as colleagues within a shared and diverse community. I make it a point to greet people by name, start conversations (even with those I don't know), and lead with positivity. It's important to me that people feel seen, heard, and supported.

While my professional background is rooted in IT, I'm a strong believer in the importance of a vibrant and engaged union. I've supported our union in various ways — from helping with pancake breakfasts and social events to ensuring the tech runs smoothly during meetings — and I'm now ready to take on a more active role by stepping into this position.

With many years of customer service and frontline engagement — including recognition through both individual and team awards — I bring a people-first approach that aligns well with the responsibilities of the Membership Services Chair.

I'm excited about the opportunity to contribute ideas, strengthen member connections, and help grow and support our union community.
